Distracted Driving:

Effective October 1, 2013 a new Florida law goes into effect that addresses texting while driving. The Palm Beach County Association of Chiefs of Police, in cooperation with All My Sons Moving & Storage, has developed a Public Service Announcement to address distracted driving. The short video can be seen on various local TV stations or can be viewed at this link: <http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=C3Ka7jRFZ0U>

Schools Open!

In cooperation with the Palm Beach County Sheriff's Office, area Police Department's are providing information to their residents about the proper action required by motorists when approaching a stopped school bus. Research has indicated that many drivers are confused about what to do and more than 21,000 illegally passed a stopped school bus. The attached flyer is being provided to help not only reduce the confusion, but to avoid a Citation and the accompanying $271 fine & 4 Points on your driver's license. Please drive carefully!

(See attached 2-page School Bus Flyer)

In addition, the Office of Juvenile Justice & Delinquency Prevention and the National Center for Missing & Exploited Children have produced two flyers regarding child safety under their "Know the Rules" educational program. Please share this information about "Going to and From School More Safely" and "For Children Who Are Home Alone" with your family.

(See attached 2, 2-page flyers)

Coming to a Neighborhood Near You!

Via some generous donations made to the Ocean Ridge Department of Public Safety Support Group, the Town has received a RadarSign® electronic speed monitoring sign. This $3,400 device not only provides a display of the speed of approaching vehicles, but it collects data to be used for informational and enforcement purposes. Its portability allows for quick installation at any location where traffic problems have been identified. This tool has already been used on Spanish River Dr. and Beachway Dr.

Thank you to those who made the donations and to the Support Group for their generosity.

KNOW THE RULES...

For Going To and From School More Safely

Every day millions of children take to the streets and highways to get to and from school.<sup>1</sup> For many children this experience is a new one, and they may not understand or be able to use the safety rules.

Young children do not have the same frame of reference for safety as adults do. They may not look before they leap, which is why it is so important for families to supervise young children and practice safety skills with their older children to make certain they really know and understand them.

In an analysis of attempted nonfamily abductions the National Center for Missing & Exploited Children found approximately 32 percent of attempted abductions happened when a child was going to or from school or a school related activity.<sup>2</sup> The tips noted below will help prepare for a safer journey.

Tips for Parents or Guardians

1. Instruct your children to always TAKE A FRIEND, always stay in well-lit areas, never take shortcuts and never go into isolated areas. Teach them to stay aware of their surroundings and observe all traffic rules in place to more safely share the roads and sidewalks with others.
2. Walk the route to and from school with your children pointing out landmarks and safe places to go if they're being followed or need help. Make the walk to and from school a "teachable moment" and chance to put their skills to the test. Make a map with your children showing acceptable routes to and from school. If your children wait for a bus, wait with them or make arrangements for supervision at the bus stop.
3. If anyone bothers your children or makes them feel scared, uncomfortable or confused, while going to or from school, teach your children to trust their feelings, immediately get away from that person and TELL you or another trusted adult. If an adult approaches your children for help or directions, remember grownups needing help should not ask children; they should ask other adults. Instruct your children to never approach a vehicle or accept money or gifts from anyone unless you have told them it is OK to accept in each instance.
4. Even though there may be safety in numbers it is still not safe for young children to walk to and from school, especially if they must take isolated routes anytime during the day or in darkness. Always provide supervision for your young children to help ensure their safe arrival to and from school.
5. Instruct your children to leave items and clothing with their name on them at home. If anyone calls out their name, teach them to not be fooled or confused. Teach your children about the tricks someone may try to use to confuse them or engage them in conversation. Children should also be taught that they do not need to be polite if approached and to get out of the situation as quickly and safely as possible.
6. Ensure current and accurate emergency contact information is on file for your children at their school. If you, or another trusted family member or friend, need to pick up your children, make sure to follow the school's departure procedures. These procedures need to include the school's confirmation of your children's departure with only those you authorize to pick them up.

7. Teach your children if anyone tries to take them somewhere they should quickly get away and yell, "This person is trying to take me away" or "This person is not my father/mother/guardian." Teach your children to make a scene and every effort to get away by kicking, screaming and resisting if anyone tries to grab them.
8. Teach your children if anyone follows them on foot to get away from that person as quickly as possible. If anyone follows them in a vehicle they should turn around, go in the other direction and try to quickly get to a spot where a trusted adult may help them. Advise them to be sure to TELL you or another trusted adult what happened.
9. Instruct your children to never leave school with anyone until they've checked with a trusted adult. If anyone tells them there is an emergency and they want your children to go with them, teach your children to always CHECK FIRST with you before doing anything. Also teach your children to always CHECK FIRST with you if they want to change their plans before or after school. Make sure your children always play with other children, have your permission to play in specific areas and let you know where they are going to be. Instruct your children to TELL a trusted adult if they notice anyone they don't know or feel comfortable with hanging around them.
10. In the event your children may be lost or injured, make sure they carry a contact card with your name and telephone numbers such as work and cellular. This card should be hidden from plain view.

Key Tips to Reinforce With Your Children

1. Always TAKE A FRIEND with you when walking, biking or standing at the bus stop. Make sure you know your bus number and which bus to ride.
2. Say NO if anyone you don't know or a person who makes you feel scared, uncomfortable or confused offers a ride. Do NOT accept a ride from anyone unless I have told you it is OK to do so in each instance.
3. Quickly get away and yell, "THIS PERSON IS NOT MY MOTHER/FATHER/GUARDIAN" if anyone tries to take you somewhere or is following you. If anyone tries to grab you, make a scene and every effort to get away by kicking, screaming, and resisting.
4. NEVER LEAVE SCHOOL GROUNDS before the regular school day ends. Always check with the office and me before leaving school early.
5. NEVER take shortcuts or walk through alleys to get to or from school. We will talk about which way to go to and from school. Remind me if activities you participate in cause you to leave earlier or arrive home later than usual. Remember to call me once you have arrived home.

KNOW THE RULES®...

For Children Who Are Home Alone

In today's busy society many children are caring for themselves before or after school and at other times during the day and throughout the year.<sup>1</sup> The American Academy of Pediatrics recommends children may be left home alone for brief periods of time without adult supervision beginning in 4th or 5th grade as long as the child is comfortable being home alone.<sup>2</sup> Many families, however, face situations in which they must leave their children unsupervised for longer periods of time or at even younger ages. According to the National Child Care Information and Technical Assistance Center, most states do not have regulations or laws specifying the age at which a child is considered old enough to stay at home alone. Guidelines or recommendations, in states having them, are most often issued by Child Protective Services (CPS) and administered at the county level. For more specific information about your areas' laws or guidelines, please contact your local CPS agency. If you need help contacting your local CPS agency, call Childhelp® at 1-800-4-A-CHILD (1-800-422-4453).<sup>3</sup>

There are a number of important points families should consider prior to allowing their children to be self-supervised. Parents and guardians need to assess each child. Does he or she have the personality, self-confidence, and judgment skills to accept this responsibility? Will the experience be positive and help build and enhance the child's self-image, or will the experience promote additional anxiety in the child who may be afraid to stay alone? Having a family conference to discuss the arrangement is a good place to start. House rules, expectations of each family member, and a daily routine should be defined. At the end of the day, parents and guardians may also use the experience to have regular family meetings to help ensure the arrangement is still working and identify any needed changes. Here are some steps your family may take to help ensure children have a positive experience when home alone.

Before allowing your child to stay home alone, you should...

- Determine if there are community resources or organizations providing care or support for children who are home alone.
- Ask your child how he or she feels about being alone. Is your child afraid to be left alone, or does he or she have the maturity and initiative to want to assume that responsibility?
- Decide if you feel your child is able to follow directions and solve problems on his or her own.
- Determine how long your child will be alone, how accessible you or another trusted adult will be in case of an emergency, and the level of safety in your neighborhood. A trusted adult is a person parents/guardians have come to rely on and with whom they and their children feel comfortable. Your local law-enforcement agency may be able to provide information through crime reports including the types and incidence rates of crimes committed in your neighborhood.
- Set specific rules for your child to follow while he or she is alone, and give him or her specific instructions about how to reach you at all times. This should also include information about what to do if your child needs assistance and can't reach you right away.
- Create practice situations for your child showing what he or she may face when home alone including what to do if the telephone rings or the electricity goes out. Make sure your child is able to explain to you the steps he or she would take to safely handle each scenario.
- Remember you're in charge, even if it is from a distance.

If you've decided to allow your child to stay home alone, make sure he or she knows...

- His or her full name, address, and telephone number.
- Your full name, the exact name of the places where you are when not at home, and all contact information that may be used to reach you when you are not at home.
- Appropriate ways to request help in an emergency using 911 or other emergency number(s) used in your area.

- Appropriate ways to carry his or her key so it is hidden and secure. Your name and address should not be on the key, and it may be wise to leave an extra key with a trusted adult.
- Appropriate steps to take if approached or followed. If anyone tries to grab your child, tell him or her to draw attention to him- or herself and loudly yell "This person is trying to take me," or "This person is not my father/mother." Instruct your child to make every effort to escape by walking, running, or pulling away; yelling; kicking; attracting attention; and/or otherwise resisting. Teach your child if he or she is ever followed by someone to get away from that person as quickly as possible. Your child should go in the opposite direction than the one in which that person is traveling and quickly try to get to a spot where a trusted adult may help him or her. Advise your child to tell you or another trusted adult what happened.
- Key safety tips including to
  - Never walk or play alone. Make sure your child knows to always stay in well-lit areas, never take shortcuts, and never go into isolated areas.
  - Always check out the home before entering looking for such things as open, ajar, or broken doors and windows or anything that doesn't look right. Go to a designated safe place to call for help if something doesn't seem right.
  - Always lock the door after entering and make sure the house is secure.
  - Immediately check in with you upon returning home to let you know he or she has arrived safely. If there is a change in plans or your child is running late teach him or her to inform you of that change. Have your child remind you if activities he or she participates in will cause a schedule change.
  - Always tell callers you aren't available to take a telephone call and offer to take a message instead of letting people know he or she is home alone.
  - Never open the door for or talk to anyone who calls or comes to the home unless that person is on a preapproved list of trusted adults you have provided to your child and you have approved the call or visit.
  - Always stay alert for true emergencies such as a fire or gas leak that would require him or her to leave the home.
  - Always check with you or another trusted adult if he or she has doubts about anything.

As a parent or guardian, you should...

- Provide a daily schedule of homework, chores, and activities for your child to follow.
- Keep a list close to the telephone including numbers for you, law enforcement, the fire department, an ambulance service, your doctor, a poison-control center, and a trusted adult who's available in case of an emergency.
  - Provide written instructions about which, if any, appliances may be used; what to do in case of fire; and how to get out of the home if there is a true emergency.
  - Provide a plan in case you are detained and what to do if your child's plans change.
  - Provide instructions about specific activities such as watching television; using a computer, gaming system, or wireless device; talking with others; and having friends in the home when you aren't there.
  - Have a first-aid kit available for your child in case of injuries. Talk with your child about the supplies in the first-aid kit and how to safely use them.
  - Make time to discuss the day's events with your child. Be sure your child knows it is OK to discuss anything with you, especially something that may have made him or her feel sad, scared, or confused in any way.
